F. D. PLEDGES PAN-AMERICA AID

Warns U.S. Won't Allow Any Economic Grab Here

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt pledged the nation's economic support today to any Pan-American country whose freedom is threatened by "economic pressure from abroad."

Condemning aggression as "ridiculous" and "criminal," Mr. Roosevelt extended this government's promise of protection for the Western Hemisphere, already given for military attack, to inroads through business and commerce.

On annual Pan-American day, the President gave the Old World a "living message" from the New World of a "will to peace" which "will have a voice in determining the order of world affairs."

NAMES NO FOES

Mr. Roosevelt spoke to the governing board of the Pan-American Union in the marble Pan-American building. Without naming the aggressor nations or their dictators, but referring to statements recently made by Hitler and Mussolini, the chief executive stressed the ties binding Europe and the Americas.

His words, as if a reply to advocates of American isolation, were:

"The American family of nations may also rightfully claim, now, to speak to the rest of the world. We have an interest, wider than that of the mere defense of our sea-ringed continent.

"We know now that the development of the next generation will so narrow the oceans separating us from the old world, that our customs and our actions are necessarily involved with hers.

PLANES EFFACE BARRIERS

"Beyond question, within a scant few years air fleets will cross the ocean as easily as today they cross the closed European seas. Economic functioning of the world becomes increasingly a unit; no interruption of it anywhere can fail, in the future, to disrupt economic life everywhere.

"The past generation in Pan-American matters was concerned with constructing the principles and the mechanisms through which this hemisphere would

Windsor's Recall To Britain Urged

GLASGOW, Scotland, April 14 (AP)—Recall of the Duke of Windsor to England and his appointment as minister for national voluntary service was urged today by Henry M. Keith, provost of the industrial town of Johnstone, near here.

Keith, whose position is similar to that of a mayor, declared Prime Minister Chamberlain should be asked to invite former King Edward VIII home and said he "would have behind him a voluntary army of 2,000,000 in a fortnight."

See Hitler Coup in Navy Move

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 14—The German naval maneuvers mean either there will be no war until the return of the German squadron after three or four weeks, or the whole thing is a blind to cover a lightning stroke this week-end, before the German ships set forth on Tuesday.

This opinion, held today in circles close to the British admiralty, helps to illuminate one of the most curious moves of the European super-crisis.

Nothing would please the British navy more than if the proposed German expedition of "40 warships" should be anywhere within reach when war began.

BRITISH SUPERIORITY

As one of the greatest naval experts in Britain expressed it to International News Service:

"It would be a delightful gift!"

The British navy's superiority over the German navy and the combined British-French superiority over the combined German and Italian navies is so immense that there is no question that the immediate result of any conflict would be an initial rout of the Germans and Italians, followed by their naval extinction.

British admiralty circles point referring to the debate, "came from senators who realize the tragedy of war, and who have talked it over and decided that we will not permit anyone to drag this nation into other countries' quarrels.

PLANNED IN SECRET

"This matter has been carefully discussed, and things have come to the point where we are willing to get out in the open and express what we feel is the sentiment of the nation, namely, that we do not want to be led into war.

"And we intend to continue to tell the Senate whenever there is war talk, and to fight to the utmost any proposals that we believe are leading us toward war."

FORM NEW SENATE BLOC TO KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

WASHINGTON, April 14 (INS)—A tightly-knit little bloc pledged to keep America out of war formed in the Senate today and countered war talk in and out of Congress with a hammering demand for American isolation from any foreign conflict.

First activities on the floor were seen in an hour of running debate which brought sharp criticism by Democrats of President Roosevelt's remark upon leaving Warm Springs, Ga., last week that he would return in the fall "If we don't have a war."

SENATOR GEORGE LEADS

The usually quiet Senator George (D.) of Georgia, is the moving spirit of the new peace group. Joined with him are Senators Reynolds (D.) of North Carolina, Bone (D.) of Washington, and about a dozen others.

First disclosure that the heated debate which George led was not unpremeditated came with George's explanation to International News Service that organization of his group had been completed.

"These expressions," said George, referring to the debate, "came from

State Speeds Efforts to End Fuel Strike; Distress Spreads

With distress calls from householders and others rapidly increasing, Commissioners Raymond V. McNamara and John Campos today struggled to bring about a settlement in the coal and oil drivers' strike.

Both arbiters expressed hope that some agreement may be reached before tomorrow, but meanwhile five telephones in the office of John P. McBride, acting director of the state division of necessaries of life, were kept busy constantly with emergency calls for fuel.

FUEL SENT TO SICK

During the past 24 hours, McBride approved deliveries to 150 households and 50 institutions. The number of calls was expected to treble before tomorrow.

Under McBride's plan, any member of a household where there is illness may telephone his office in the State House, giving name and address, kind of fuel used, the company from which it is to be bought and the name of the attending physician.

The physician then sends a certificate to the fuel company and messengers rush from the McBride office to union headquarters with the approvals. Reserve union drivers are sent to make the deliveries, in trucks furnished by the companies.

Chill weather and increased vigilance by strike pickets combined to block all other fuel deliveries by 30 major Boston concerns, and officials said the resulting shortage would be felt first by families on relief.

SEEK TO END DEADLOCK

Meanwhile the state arbitration board called an emergency meeting in another effort to break the deadlock.

Unless both sides, the operating companies and Local 68 of the truck drivers' union, agree to at least some form of arbitration within a few hours, blame for the dispute will be fixed and announced, the arbitration board warned.

The side at fault will be publicly condemned, according to the board's statement.

From all parts of Greater Boston came reports of violence as pickets of the union used fast automobiles to chase oil trucks.

Three pickets, accused by Revere police of forcing a truck to the

CLAYTON MARTIN AND BRIDE, HELEN

$12-a-Week Clerk Pleads Guilty to $9,895.96 Theft in Lynn Court

BRIDE STANDS BY YOUTH HELD IN PAYROLL THEFT

Recovered from the hysteria attendant upon his confession of thefts totalling $9,895.96 from his employers—frantic hysteria which necessitated the attention of a physician—Clayton Martin, $12-a-week clerk and a bridegroom of but seven weeks, pleaded guilty to charges of grand larceny in Lynn court today.

The 21-year-old youth who, as a clerk for the Covert Armored Car Service, handled thousands of dollars, was met at court by his bride, Helen, and his aged father.

While visiting her husband in the court dock following his arraignment, Martin's pretty young bride declared:

"I'm going tos tand by Clayton, no matter what. He's the best man in the world."

The two took places in the rear of the room during the arraignment before Judge Ralph Reeve.

The charge was read and Martin, smiling, entered his plea in a firm voice. He was ordered held in bonds of $10,000 pending further hearing Tuesday, and, after a brief talk with his bride, was taken to Salem jail.

Mrs. Martin displayed no emotion during the ordeal, save that her eyes never left him during all the time he was in court.

When he surrendered himself at Back Bay station Martin told police of his thefts, and of his desire to clear his conscience.

As he completed his recital he collapsed.

'Mistaken Identity' Holdup Suspect Free

Accused of armed robbery, fingerprinted and placed in police lineups, Archibald J. MacDougal, Westland avenue, Back Bay, appeared before Judge Timothy Ahearn in Roxbury court today and was freed when two witnesses decided he was the "wrong man."

MacDougal was arrested following a $70 robbery in a chain bakery in Massachusetts avenue, Back Bay. Muriel Diab, girl clerk, and Arthur Thomas, janitor, had later identified him as the holdup man.

"He looks altogether different now," said Miss Diab today.

"I guess I made a mistake," said Thomas.

White House Aide Forster's Wife Dies

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—Mrs. Emma Maria Forster, 60, wife of Rudolph Forster, White House executive clerk, died today following a brief illness.

'She Loved Me, I Liked Her,' Knox Swears

"Did you love Helen Dale? . . ."

Like a whiplash the words crackled across the courtroom and ex-Trooper George T. Knox, on trial for his life for the murder of the pretty divorcee, shrank under their import. He waited, searching for words. Then, so low as to be hardly audible, came the answer:

"I liked her."

Remorselessly Prosecutor William Sulivan drove on.

"Did she love you?" he snapped.

Again hesitancy. The search for words. The answer:

"Yes . . . I believe she did."

UNDER PROSECUTOR'S FIRE

There it was. The words had been said. The picture had been drawn.

He "liked" her. She "loved" him. And that was how their affairs stood on the afternoon of May 22, 1937, when, wounded and bleeding, she was taken from his Commonwealth avenue apartment and then rushed to a hospital, where, presently, she died.

Prosecutor Sullivan was trying to show that Knox and the woman had quarreled violently, bitterly, and that in a flurry of rage he might have wounded her fatally with his 38-caliber revolver—one of three guns in the apartment. Knox, hesitant, sought to show that the wound could only have been inflicted by Mrs. Dale herself.

GRILLED ON SUICIDE

So again, while the jury in Judge Louis Goldberg's court strained for every word, came a direct question:

"Do you believe Helen Dale committed suicide?"

Again the pause, the hesitancy.

"I don't know," came the answer at last.

"You didn't believe on Saturday, the day of the shooting, that she committed suicide?"

"I don't know."

"I want you to answer my question with 'yes' or 'no.'"

There was no answer.

TELLS AGAIN ABOUT SHOT

The prosecutor then cast back to Knox's own version of the shooting. He was in the apartment, asleep, after a hard night during which he had kept a rendezvous with another woman.

4 WIVES CUT TIES IN COURT

Her husband drove the steel pin of the hinge of her pocketbook through her lip when she refused to give him money, Mrs. Alice Romain of Worcester square, South End, testified in Suffolk court today, and at another time stabbed a four-tined fork through the palm of her hand.

This was because she had chided him for drinking, she said. An attractive blonde, Mrs. Romain went on to explain she had married William Romain of East Newton street, Back Bay, on Independence Day, 1926.

"And I never saw him sober," she said. "One night he got home at 2:20 a. m., pulled me out of bed and slapped me."

Judge John V. Mahoney granted her an uncontested decree on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

NO ARMISTICE THERE

Mrs. Nina Mae Daum of St. Paul street, Brookline, who appeared in court smartly clad in a blue fox scarf and black ensemble, testified to Judge Mahoney that a national holiday had been no help to her, either.

"Armistice Day last year I had a lady friend at home," she said, and my husband had been sulking around the house all day.

"When I asked him to drive her home, he began to swear and finally threw a book and then an ashtray at me. A week later he hit me with a dish."

She was granted an uncontested

SUSPECT 3 SHARE GUILT IN SLAYING MOTHER OF 7

BERLIN, N. H., April 14—The possibility that Mrs. Adele Gagne, attractive mother of seven, was attacked and slain by more than one man was revealed today as police announced three suspects were under surveillance.

At least, one arrest, and perhaps one or two more, were expected by tonight, police said.

Three men in the vicinity of Berlin were watched by detectives while police checked back on the trio's movements since Tuesday, when Mrs. Gagne was last seen alive.

School children on their way home discovered Mrs. Gagne's battered body lying among rocks off a path in the Napert village section of Berlin.

VICTIM GAVE BATTLE

County investigators said the scene showed marks of a terrific battle, in which the woman struggled wildly for life.

So fierce were the blows rained on her that her skull was fractured and she suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, according to Dr. L. P. Beaudoin, medical referee.

Mrs. Gagne's false teeth were knocked 30 feet from her body by the force of one blow, police said. Her nose and forehead bore more marks of a brutal beating.

County Solicitor F. Maurice LaForce said Charles Gagne, 49, husband of the murdered woman, knew nothing about the slaying.

HUSBAND NOT TOLD

Gagne, a carpenter employed with a lumber concern, had not been told of his wife's absence by his children, because they expected her to come home momentarily and did not want their father to lose any pay for time off in searching for her.

Police said Gagne believed his wife had gone to visit relatives.

What's this all about?" chirps this fresh arrival at East Boston, in typical honey bear talk. He's among animal shipment from Singapore that arrived aboard S. S. Steel Traveler, and is headed for New York and Frank Buck's exhibit at the World's Fair.

Buck Cargo Arrives, But Only Half Alive

"Bring 'Em Back Alive" Frank Buck's seagoing menagerie, which left Singapore 26 days ago, sailed into Boston today sadly depleted in numbers.

The animals, destined for the Buck exhibit at the New York World's Fair, were in cages that dotted the decks of the Isthmian line round-the-world freighter Steel Traveler.

Completing her 36th voyage, the Steel Traveler arrived six days late with a harrowing tale of hurricanes and nightmare seas since the time she sailed out of sunny Singapore harbor.

SEAS KILL ANIMALS

"Bringing them back alive is an easy thing if you're bringing them out of the jungle," said L. R. "Nick" Nicol of Singapore, boss man of the animal shipment.

"But those seas! Why, the decks haven't been dry since we left Singapore. The poor little beasts just didn't have a chance.

"One after the other they died. First to go was a huge baboon. Poor fellow, he'd pound his chest wanting to fight the sea. But it got him. We did everything we could.

"I rigged up flood lamps to provide heat, and I guess that saved quite a few."

STATEROOM FOR BIRDS

Nicol was forced to put nine rare birds of paradise into a steam-heated stateroom along with some of the more valuable monkeys.

Two of the birds, valued at $1000 each, died from the cold, Nicol said. Four Malayan lizards also succumbed.

Nicol estimated that sea and cold killed nearly half of the animal cargo. The remainder he valued at $25,000.

Included in the cargo were black panthers, honey bears, monkeys of all descriptions, birds, 20-foot pythons and rare Malay squirrels. Seven Malay and Javanese boys tended the shipment.

One seaman, Arthur Wise, suffered a severe knee injury and others narrowly escaped being washed overboard when the Steel Traveler was struck by a hurricane in the Mediterranean.

WPA CHOPS DOWN ON 'BUDGETEERS'

The job of cutting down the 1939 City of Boston budget that for the past three weeks has been developing into a side-splitting farce, reached a climactic scene today in City Hall when WPA workers began cutting down the budget room.

At 10.30 a. m. when the budget discussions were scheduled to get under way, chairman of the city council committee on appropriations, Perlie Dyer Chase, stalked into the chamber set aside for budget hearings. As has been customary, he was alone.

Accustomed to vacant chairs he was completely nonpulsed when he found, that there weren't even chairs to be vacant or a table to draw them up to.

PUTS END TO THAT

To top that situation, 20 WPA workers were hammering on the floors and walls in the process of tearing the room apart.

Fighting his way clear of the dust clouds, Councilor Chase made a dash for the phone. Fifty-three minutes later Chairman Chase had succeeded in clearing the room of WPA workers.

In the meantime, he received another shock when he discovered that five of the seven members of the budget committe had arrived.

These included William A. Carey, Roxbury, who, with Chase, has been present at every meeting; Sidney Rosenberg, Dorchester; Henry L. Shattuck, Back Bay, and James P. Langan, Jamaica Plain.

MOVE TO NEW ROOM

Still absent were Councilors Clement A. Norton of Hyde Park, who has failed to attend any of the meetings, and George F. McMahon, Roxbury.

The committee and representatives of the board of assessors and the building commission retired to a tiny conference room adjacent the old conference room in another attempt to discuss budget savings.

The City Hall is in the process of being remodeled, but no reason was advanced as to why the budget room was selected for destruction at this time.

Rule 5 Children Can Join Their Deported Ma

ROCHESTER, N. H., April 14—A heart-broken mother today learned that her five children, pawns in an international immigration dispute, will be permitted to remain at her side when she joins her husband in Canada.

Mrs. Laura Boisvert was told by United States authorities she must go to Thetford Mines, Que., to rejoin her husband, Romeo, who has been refused re-entry into the United States after living here for 13 years.

Officials ruled her husband had never taken out citizenship papers in this country. Consequently, he was barred out a few days ago when he tried to return after a nine-month stay in Canada.

Immigration authorities at first informed Mrs. Boisvert that she could take with her two of her seven children who were born in Canada, when she leaves to rejoin her husband next week.

Today, however, as Mrs. Boisvert prepared to say farewell to her five little ones, she was told they could go with her as soon as her husband convinces Canadian authorities the children will not be a burden on the little town of Thetford Mines.

She Got the Divorce!

WORCESTER, April 14—Her husband allowed her only 25 cents a day, Mrs. Paula Shimkus testified in probate court. She liked the movies, restaurant coffee and doughnuts.

She got her divorce.

Police charged them with illegal possession of a gun, aftermath of Miss McEvoy's alleged appearance in a South End cafe last week with a gun. She testified a gun found in a police raid in her room had been given to her by Nathan.

Gulpers, Look: Whole Pigskin!

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 14 (INS)—There's an end to everything, and observers of the American college scene wondered today if Hubert Fraker, Universit. of Oklahoma freshman, didn't finish the collegiate gulping derby with his claim to having eaten a football.

Fraker said he managed to get the pigskin down after it had been deflated and soaked briefly in water. The morsel was tougher than most steaks, the youth said. The stunt won for Fraker a $5 bet.

5 HURT AS $125,000 BLAZE SWEEPS BLOCK IN BROCKTON

BROCKTON, April 14—Running headlong into fire ropes strung about the Opera House block here, practically destroyed in a $125,000 fire, Jean Rogers, 15, of Allen street, was hurled to the pavement today, sustaining head injuries, which, temporarily at least, deprived her of the power of speech.

Rushed to Brockton City Hospital it was stated there that her injuries were potentially serious, and she was placed under observation pending a decision as to whether an operation will follow.

Although four firemen were cut by flying glass, and others were overcome by smoke, the injury to the girl—caused after the fire was practically out—was the most serious of all due to the blaze.

The four injured fire fighters are Capt. Herbert Gulliver and Firemen Daniel O'Brien, John Kelly and Leonard Duncanson.

BLASTS HURT FIREMEN

The fire, which raged for five hours, is believed to have started in the basement of the three story building, which, prior to another fire in 1885, housed the city opera house.

The danger was increased by exploding cans of ether in the stock of the H. E. Dunnington apothecary, which blew out windows, injured the firemen, and sent balls of blazing gases soaring into the sky.

A general alarm was sounded, and apparatus was rushed from Bridgewater, Stoughton and Abington.

The flames roared up through the building, destroying the Kempton dress shop, and spread through the Model shoe store, the K. C. Hosiery shop, King's Hat Shop, the Cape Cod Fish Market, Helman's luggage store and a variety shop.

OFFICES ARE SWEPT

Five beauty parlors and three dentists' offices were destroyed as flames swept into the upper floors, followed by cave-ins as the supports gave way. The blaze was held in the old opera house building, although the Modern Theater, next door, was badly damaged by smoke and water.

$15,000 Fire Sweeps Tent in Weymouth

Heavy Boston-bound traffic from the South Shore was blocked on Route 3A today as a spectacular fire swept the Tent dance hall and restaurant, familiar North Weymouth landmark.

Starting with an explosion in the center of the building, the fire raced the length of the rambling structure.

Fire Captain James McCarthy was overcome, but revived to continue on duty. Afterwards all firemen were gas masks.

A second alarm was sounded as soon as the first apparatus arrived. For five hours the blaze raged out of control, breaking out in many parts of the building at once as it mushroomed in all directions.

Morey Pearl, orchestra leader, who conducts the recreation center, said he believed a faulty stove started the fire. He estimated damage at $15,000, although the blaze was still out of control at the time of his estimate.

A large hall used by the Order of Hibernians for beano games, quantities of furniture and game equipment, the dance hall, bar and restaurant were destroyed.

Leary Asks Ban On Small Alky Sales

Seeking to stop pint and quart sales of alcohol, Dr. Timothy Leary, medical examiner for the southern district of Suffolk, has asked the legislators to prohibit druggists from selling it in less than gallon quantities. Also, only on doctors' prescriptions.

There is a new high in alcohol deaths, authorities say.

Policeman Accused By Wife He Divorced

Police Officer Henry C. Elliott's matrimonial sea—which hasn't been exactly calm—kicked up on him again today when his former wife had him in West Roxbury court, where she sought a complaint for non-support.

DOROTHY ELLIOTT
Seeks Back Alimony

This was puzzling for a time, inasmuch as Elliott obtained a divorce from the blonde, statuesque Dorothy Flora Gilman Elliott last January and was ordered to pay her $7 a week alimony.

Elliott admitted today in court, however, that he was a little behind in the payments, declaring he had been ill and unable to keep up.

The court advised him to catch up and this he said he would do. Meanwhile the non-support claim was continued until June 28, three days after his decree nisi becomes final.

In the January divorce proceedings, Officer Elliott testified that his wife insisted on keeping five dogs, one of which she kept chained to his bed. Also she kept four canaries, he said, and in self-defense he contributed a white rat to the menagerie.

During the early proceedings, the policeman learned that her first husband was living when Elliott married her, and the policeman, at the suggestion of Probate Judge William M. Prest, filed for annulment.

Later it was found, however, that the first husband, Charles J. Gilmore, had died some time after Elliott's marriage, and the annulment action was dropped.

Rule Paper Firm Is Not Exempt

By order of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, the Securities and Exchange Commission regulation exempting the International Power & Paper Company from the rules governing holding companies was voided today.

The SEC rule permitted the company, not registered as a holding company, to distribute and sell its securities publicly through the mails. It went up to the court on appeal of John Lawless, Jr., a stockholder of the concern.

Rearrest 2 for U. S. In 'Floating Lottery'

Arrested by postal inspectors and state police in a raid on the alleged headquarters of the state-wide "floating lottery" known as The Railroader, Virgil O'Brien, 36, of Mt. Vernon street, Gloucester, and Martin Bowman, 46, of West street, Braintree, were released in $2000 bonds apiece in Quincy court today.

They were immediately taken into custody again by state police, who said they would be held for the postal inspectors for arraignment in Federal court.

Detectives seized 500,000 tickets offered for sale at 50 cents each in a raid on a Wyman road, Braintree, house, which climaxed two months' federal investigation.

A few hours later they raided the Paul Revere Press, Revere, and seized 100,000 circulars which allegedly announced the winners of the latest of the semi-monthly drawings.

John J. Breslin, chief of the Boston branch of the postal inspectors, said his men trailed the lottery promoters for two months and were convinced drawings were "100 per cent fakes."

O'Brien was arrested a month ago when Dedham police staged a similar raid as a $14,000 drawing was about to be held. He paid a $500 fine.

Detectives said promoters sold tickets throughout the state and frequently changed their base of operations to elude police.

'She Loved Me,' Says Knox

There was the sound of a shot—

"How long," queried the prosecutor, taking full advantage of his right to cross-examine, "how long did it take you to get out of bed and into the room where she was?"

"I don't know. I woke up startled."

"How long did you stay in bed after you heard the shot?"

"I don't know."

NO SUICIDE THREATS

"Please answer, it is very important."

"I realized something had happened."

"When you walked into the room, what did you believe?"

"I didn't think Helen had shot herself."

"Was there anything in the room that you interrupted as a suicide?"

"No."

The prosecutor took a deep breath, and then:

"Had Helen Dale at any time said anything to you which would indicate a suicidal intent?"

"No."

"Was anything said at anytime that gave you the impression that she was angry?"

"She was angry about my taking the money from her."

Knox referred to a matter previously testified to—that on Thursday, two days before the shooting, he had taken some money from its hiding place in her brassiere while she was asleep, but not under the influence of liquor.

There were three guns in the apartment, Knox said. Two of them were of the type used by policemen, one of which had been a part of his equipment as a state trooper before he became a special officer for the telephone company. The other was a 25-caliber automatic pistol.

HEARD SOUND OF SHOT

He was in the kitchenette, he said, when he heard the sound of the shot.

Mrs. Dale, he said, was standing in the middle of the room, very frightened, the revolver in her hand.

On the table, he went on, was her large handbag, which had been struck by the bullet, which had then plowed through the wall. He took the revolver from her.

Seibold, in his testimony, said the second and unaccounted for bullethole was in the wall in such fashion that it must have been fired by a person in the middle of the room. He said it had penetrated the wall and crossed an outside hallway.

The fatal bullet, on the other hand, had ranged upward in Mrs. Dale's body from a point in her left breast and had left her body three inches from her backbone, going through the chair in which she was found sitting.

Won't that presser's boy ever come?

DON'T LAUGH YET!

This is One-Pants Egbert.

Coat and vest rarin' to go places. Pants at the presser's.

But don't laugh. Not yet, anyhow. Even if you know the answer, there's still a little bit of Egbert in some of the neighbors.

Some day the presser is going to decide to go back to Greece, or come down with appendicitis, or suddenly become the father of twins.

Then what's going to happen to the One-Pants Egberts?

If they're smart, they'll become fathers of "twins", too. At Bond's—where 2 trousers go with every suit*. And "pressing headaches" go out the window.

Maybe a personal valet and a closet full of clothes would also solve the problem. But for most of us, extra trousers are the best bet. For that extra margin of safety. For extra wear.

Hero Vanishes After Saving Man in Harbor

Boston police are pretty proud of that unnamed, unsung hero who, today, without thought of self, or of consequences, leaped into the bay, saved a man and then, before anyone could learn his identity, slipped away.

They'd like to meet him and extend to him the adulation of the department.

As for the other: He's at Boston City Hospital, his condition not serious. He said he is Manuel Frieta, 56, of Meridian street, East Boston. He was seen to plunge from Union wharf, Commercial street, then beckon for help.

Before he jumped he left $50 on the wharf, which is being held for him, police said.

Wrecks His Car Fleeing Officer

One minute the tail light of the car was out. Five minutes later the whole car was a wreck, State Trooper Joseph Lynch of Norwell barracks said he tried to stop a car driven by Tore J. Ovaska, 25, of Cushing street, Hingham, to tell him the tail light was out.

Ovaska, the trooper charged, sped away and led him on a wild chase for more than five miles through Hingham and Weymouth.

The chase ended when the car hit a post, a tree and a fence, then dropped five feet into a ditch, rolling over twice.

Ovaska was taken unconscious from the wreckage and treated at Weymouth Hospital for a deep gash in the head.

He was then booked for traffic violations.

LINDY HERE WITH DEFENSE PLAN

NEW YORK, April 14 (INS)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrives from Europe today to blaze a path of American preparedness by a military aviation program matching the best in war-fevered Europe.

After Col. Lindbergh conferred by radio telephone from the liner Aquitania today with associates here, it was definitely learned that his sudden "mystery trip" to America is the direct result of the mounting war crisis abroad.

From sources with which Col. Lindbergh has remained in close touch throughout the years of his self-imposed exile the following salient facts were established:

1—Col. Lindbergh believes that to meet even a remote possibility of being drawn into any general conflict, America should be thoroughly prepared, especially in the aeronautics branch.

2—He decided the time had come to give America a first hand report of his extensive study of military aviation research and progress in numerous European countries, notably the dictatorships.

3—He was fearful that due to official haste spurred on by public war hysteria the air defense program would be rushed to give a semblance of defense without actual strength capable of matching the vast modern war machines abroad.

For those reasons, it was confided, Col. Lindbergh set aside his aversion to facing the spotlight and decided that he must present his case for national security in person. A contributing factor in his arrival at this decision was understood to be his membership, which he has never allowed to lapse, in the unpaid but official government advisory committee for aeronautics.

Nazi Fleet to Sail For Tests Off Spain

BERLIN, April 14 (AP)—An official communique disclosed today that 25 German fleet units, from battleships to submarines, were leaving Kiel for one month of foreign training off Spain, Portugal, Spanish Morocco and Tangier, internationalized zone of Morocco.

The spring maneuvers, the communique said, would revive an "old tradition of the German navy, interrupted by the Spanish civil war."

The naval force, numbering 25 ships exclusive of auxiliaries, will leave next Tuesday from Kiel, ex-Wilhelmshaven base, it was announced.

Reports that some vessels already had left Kiel and were en route today for a rendezvous off Spain's Atlantic coast were said by craft.

BRITAIN SEEN BLUFFING

Paris and London were said to have been advised of the maneuvers.

Plans for the exercises were carried forward while the Nazi press assailed Britain's move to bar two of participating Leaders Fu[illegible] removed from confidence over the shoulders of the passengers.

Italian Spain, Portugal, Spanish Morocco and Tangier would be visited. The maneuvering force would include two battleships, two cruisers, six destroyers, 15 submarines and auxiliary.

Commenting on yesterday's guarantees to Greece and Rumania, the newspapers declared Britain was bluffing.

Although an official comment on the British policy had been restricted to a[illegible] Foreign Office toward a new [illegible] but authoritative quarters interpreted the move toward peace as a sure sign the German government did not regard the present European [illegible] as settled.

Informed sources said Germany never was [illegible] to go to war through the English channel if the French and her were regarded as enemies.

The Nazi press said the guarantees such as Britain has given to Poland, Greece and Rumania, the Greek and Rumanian governments were never seriously had not been asked for by the small nations and were not theirs.

Britain Plans To Train Army Of Women

LONDON, April 14 (AP)—Two government departments launched plans today for women's units trained to free men for defense duties.

The admiralty decided to form a women's [illegible] over many trips, idle or tugboat men [illegible] to be released for new warships which are going into service at the rate of one every two weeks.

The ministry of agriculture announced a call [illegible] immediately a women's land army to replace [illegible] women and provide additional labor to increase home food production in case of war.

The naval service will be similar to the women's royal naval service recruited here in 1917.

Members will be responsible for radio operating, recording, drawing maps and [illegible] naval accountancy, victualling, [illegible] cooking and other duties.

Volunteers for the service will work in Britain's four major naval ports, Portsmouth, Plymouth, Chatham and Rosyth.

Canterbury Leaves Morgan to Rush Home

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 14 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury [illegible] changing at the Mediterranean port of [illegible] the Morgan [illegible] Canterbury [illegible] he was [illegible] to [illegible] the European [illegible] of the international situation.

NAVY MOVE PUZZLES ALLIES

out the British and French capital ships in the Mediterranean outweigh German and Italian vessels by more than two to one—even when the proposed German expedition gets there.

The British and French have 164,000 tons, divided among six battleships, in the Mediterranean, as against a German-Italian total of 77,200 tons, divided among two battleships and three armored ships.

WOULD OPEN BALTIC

It is pointed out that with such a disparity you don't fight at all unless you're crazy.

The British now consider that if war broke out during the proposed German naval exp[illegible] would be a barrel-ex[illegible] British navy to break into the Baltic, clean up the mine fields, [illegible] up what is left of the German navy and cut off Germany from the Baltic countries, particularly Sweden with her invaluable iron ore.

Indeed, this German naval expedition could lose a war for Germany, if Hitler [illegible] continue to insist [illegible] do not mean [illegible] Axis should [illegible] ture while [illegible] posed to attack.

Toward Italy also the [illegible] temper and strategy of [illegible] was changed.

ITALY FIRST PREY

Whereas during the Munich crisis it was planned to bottle up the Mediterranean from Suez to Gibraltar merely to protect French transports from North Africa, it is now intended to go in savagely, sink every ton of the Italian navy and then not only blockade Italy but shell every inch of Italian defensible coast line, while the French army, holding the Germans along the Maginot line, concentrates on invading Italy over the Alps.

If war comes the British and French plan first to knock out Italy, then take her apart.

The possibility, nevertheless, is not excluded that the Axis, still infatuated with the notion that the democracies will not fight, may be planning a new "Mediterranean Munich," with a threat to Gibraltar from both land and sea.

Foreign Legion Enlists Spaniards

PARIS, April 14 (AP)—France preparing against the chance that the new collective security in Europe may not avail war today started taking Spanish republican fighting men from concentration camps into the famed French Foreign Legion.

Only 300 of the 20,000 warrior refugees were [illegible] to serve in the legion out of the [illegible] thousands who applied but officials termed them the first contingent.

The enlistment move was interpreted in many quarters as a warning that if Britain did not take her troops out of Spain France would arm masses of the veteran Spanish militiamen.

work together. But the next generation will be concerned with the methods by which the new world can live together with the [illegible]

"The issue is really whether our civilization is to be dragged into the tragic vortex of unending militarism, punctuated by periodic wars, or whether we shall be able to maintain the ideal of peace, individuality and civilization as the fabric of our lives.

"We have the right to say that there shall not be an organization of world affairs which permits us no choice but to turn our countries into barracks, unless we are to be vassals of some conquering enemy.

"The truest defense of the peace of our hemisphere must always be in the hope that our sister nations beyond the seas will break the bonds of the ideas which constrain them toward perpetual warfare. By example we can at least show them the possibility. We, too, have a stake in world affairs."

Another point in his address [illegible] without mentioning [illegible] was:

"There is no fatality which forces the Old World towards new catastrophe. Men are not prisoners of fate, but only prisoners of their own minds. They have within themselves the power to become free at any moment.

DENIES BRITISH "THREAT"

"Only a few days ago the head of a great nation referred to his country as a 'prisoner' of the Mediterranean. A little later another chief of state, on learning that a neighbor country had agreed to defend the independence of another neighbor, characterized that agreement as a 'threat,' and an 'encirclement.'

"Yet there is no such thing as encircling, or threatening, or imprisoning any peaceful nation. We have reason to know this is [illegible]

"The American peace which we celebrate today," he said, "has no quality of weakness in it. We are prepared to maintain it and to defend it to the fullest extent of our strength, matching force to force if any attempt is made to subvert our institutions, or to impair the independence of any one of our group

GIVES U. S. PLEDGE

"Should the method of attack be that of economic pressure, I pledge that my own country will also give economic support, so that no American nation need surrender any of its sovereign freedom to maintain economic welfare.

"This is the spirit and intent of the Declaration of Lima. The solidarity of the continent."

Emphasizing that "[illegible] nation seeks to deny any [illegible] her access to the resources and other resources we [illegible] have to live in prosperity," Mr. Roosevelt asserted:

"Pledges designed to prevent aggression, accompanied by the open doors of trade and intercourse, and bound together by common will to cooperate peacefully, make warfare between us as outworn and useless as the weapons of the stone age.

"If that process can be successful here, is it too much to hope that a similar intellectual and spiritual process may succeed everywhere? Do we really have to assume that nations can find no better methods of realizing their destinies than those which were used by the Huns and Vandals 1500 years ago?"

SEES N. E. BOOM IN INDUSTRY

New England with its plentiful supply of natural raw materials, new industries [illegible] city governments become normal relations with business, Charles Wood New York industrial engineer declared today at the fifth annual New England industrial development conference at the Parker House.

Wood advocated speedy return of private capital to construction, private enterprise, return of confidence to private employment, revival of [illegible] plants and more rapid [illegible] transfer as most vital factors in effecting a return of prosperity.

Delegates to the conference, sponsored by the New England Council, also heard H. A. Lokelund of the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company say:

"Banks are not only keenly interested in seeing present industries move forward and new industries spring into being, but are anxious to contribute in every way possible to bring this about."

Warning New England waterways are becoming so polluted that a "water famine" is imminent unless steps are started, was given by Prof. Frederick K. Morris of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Clearing rivers at public expense "would renew the usefulness of our rivers for water supply, paper mills, power and other industries," he contended.

Clean water, he said, would help increased [illegible] and would improved prospects for New England's [illegible] industries, he added.

He also advocated manufacture locally of many products now imported [illegible] and recovering this section has many neglected natural resources.

B[illegible] descended on the municipal building [illegible] themselves heard, the Cambridge City Council [illegible] budget with economy in mind.

Assurances that a serious attempt will be made to avert a [illegible] dollar increase in the tax rate quiets the protests.

Is the tide turning? Are property owners' voices becoming louder and more insistent? Will the movement find duplication in other cities and towns?

You wonder. And we hope.

CITY HALL PIGEONS, traditionally as much a part of Boston as the Custom House itself, face extinction.

Citizen handing [illegible] suggest trapping or shooting them. All was to be deemed.

But officials hesitate. There's public opinion to be reckoned with. Thousands of persons—too many thousands—might object to the mass extermination of these little feathered friends, might say:

"Keep your hands off pigeons that harm no one; if you must purge something, purge the vulture of political greed and stupidity."

What do YOU think? What is YOUR opinion? Let's hear it.

PROVIDENCE STATISTICS concern you, particularly if you have been decided into associating large families with an absence of parental intelligence.

Miss Marguerite Cogan, Pembroke College senior, studies the I.Q. histories of 607 high school graduates and discovers that those who thirteen years ago rated highest in "I. Q." tests now have the most children.

"My result," she concludes, "flies in the face of what many persons have believed for years. Obviously, there is no truth in the assumption that the more intelligent a person is the fewer children he or she is apt to have."

That would have interested Charles Dickens, great and beloved novelist of the last century. His parents had eight sons and daughters. He had ten.

"MY MOTHER is twice as much of a person as any other children ever will be," President Karl T. Compton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology tells you.

The selection of Mrs. Hope Compton as "The American Mother for 1939" by the Golden Rule Foundation prompts the educator to add:

"My mother," he continues, "deserves such an honor in her own right, through her help and counsel to hundreds of students and children of foreign missionaries and not, as one might infer from news stories, simply because her children had the good fortune to come to positions of some influence."

You cannot fail to admire Dr. Compton's modesty or neglect to understand the sincere love that inspires his remarks.

He is not the first distinguished man publicly to honor his mother. You will recall another, long ago, who said: "A mother is a mother still, the holiest thing alive."

YOUR BABY will leave your arms and go to school at the tender age of two years. That is, if government takes seriously the suggestions of Mrs. Frances Fayfarth, speaker before the Association for Childhood Education, now in session in Atlanta, Ga.

Children's lifetime characteristics may become fixed during the years from two to six, she maintains, citing as her authority the findings of Federal nursery schools.

Few persons will be convinced. Certainly not the many who realize that these nursery schools in existence only a few years, can hardly be expected to determine "lifetime" characteristics.

Why not consider men who really did contribute to civilization and progress? Sir Isaac Newton, for instance? Or Jefferson, Franklin, Lincoln, Edison, or Einstein?

One thing, at least, these men enjoyed in common; they were not in their cradles when two.

IF YOU'RE BALD or becoming so, eat hearty. Your hair-loser body will supply the new hair.

This is the opinion of Professor Earl O. Butcher, Hamilton College's brilliant biologist.

"White rats get a new coat of fur every 35 days," he explains. "If they are underfed, however, their bodies continue to grow in length, and they are as active as ever, but their hair growth occurs only every 50 or 60 days, if at all.

"Less worry and BETTER appetites, more rest and less energy-consuming activity should be the salvation of America's hair problem."

Can it be that the professor has spent so much time looking at rats' coats that he has overlooked politicians? Some of them eat prodigiously at banquets every night in the week.

Yet few, if any, bear a remote resemblance to the Biblical Samson.

Human Side of News -it-

by EDWIN C. HILL

THE 21ST DAY of April will be a day of great jubilation in England, and throughout the British Commonwealth of Nations with their half a billion people. For the 21st of April is the birthday of a young girl who will likely be the Queen of England and Empress of India some day.

At least that is the general accepted opinion over there, and a very popular notion, too. Millions of Britons are hoping and many are praying that this young girl who is growing so fast as tall as her mother, Queen Elizabeth, now will one day ascend the throne as Elizabeth the Second, perhaps perform a service for the people and the Empire as great in this modern world as Elizabeth the First performed in her day when, by determination and guile, she saved England and set England on the road to Empire.

QUEENS have been fortunate for England. Under Queen Anne—to go back no farther. Marlborough won his great victories on the Continent and ended the advance of Louis XIV. Queen Elizabeth and Queen Victoria, to say nothing of "Good Queen Anne," brought marvelous prosperity and renown to England. Curiously enough, little Princess Elizabeth is a modern edition of her famous ancestor, Elizabeth Tudor.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH
"Like Famous Ancestor

Like the great Queen Elizabeth, the Elizabeth of 1939 has a fierce temper. Her grandmother, Queen Mary, was well known for her will power as a small girl. There she is clever enough to control when necessary but she knows how to use them as a weapon when she wants her own way.

Princess Elizabeth also has a passion for history, again like her grandmother Queen Mary, whose favorite reading has always been history and biography; and if she is ever Queen Regnant of Great Britain and Empress of India, will understand perfectly well her power and her limitations, a knowledge that makes a monarch a tremendous power in England, because he (or she) knows how to use the technique of British sovereignty.

LITTLE ELIZABETH is already known in England to be a remarkable child for her age. Physically as I say she resembles her grandmother to an amazing degree, but her temperament is astonishingly like the temperament of the great Elizabeth Tudor. Of her it was said that she had more wit than any of her courtiers, and more charm when she cared to exercise it than any of the beauties of her court.

PROBABLY no more noteworthy work is being undertaken by young actors than the transcriptions of great plays for the blind. Through technical means similar to phonography, over 50 dramas ranging from "Hamlet" to "The Rat" have been recorded for the 10,000 blind people in the United States.

Called the Talking Books for the Blind, they are distributed through the Congressional Library to twelve regional libraries. For the past two years ten contract actors have been employed in New York. It requires seven records for an uncut version of "Hamlet" but modern plays are condensed into three.

No one has been more outstanding in the work than Wesley Addy, who is scoring such a triumph in Maurice Evans' company as Laertes in "Hamlet" and Hotspur in "Henry IV." Although in his early twenties, he plays mature roles in the transcriptions. To his credit he has played over 25 parts on the discs—more than doing his share toward alleviating the burden of the less fortunate.

WHEN PAUL - WHITEMAN plowed through five plates of tea sandwiches at the Copley-Plaza yesterday we suspected that Mrs. Whiteman was not in town. We knew our hunch was correct when two pieces of French pastry topped off the snack.

It was his wife Margaret Livingston, former screen star, who, through strict dietary supervision, slashed the maestro's avoirdupois from 315 to 197. The streamlining can be viewed when the King of Jazz waves his baton at a special concert Sunday night in Symphony Hall.

Political Parade -it-

by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, April 14 — A President who talks and acts in terms of war, and a Congress which thinks naively and perhaps even fatuously in terms of a peace which can be maintained by the mere processes of doing nothing about it, seem all steamed up for head on collision.

When it occurs it will rock the country. It will make the showdown on the Supreme Court packing issue look mighty tame by comparison.

THE ISSUE is admitted by the more thoughtful minds at the Capitol to be the most momentous to confront this country since the Civil War.

It is the issue of war or peace for America, with the President obviously war-minded, and the Congress watching him warily. It is a more important issue than that decided in 1916, when America entered the World War, for admittedly the domestic situation of the country is far more precarious than it was 22 years ago, and it is almost inevitable that a plunge into another European war today would result in the virtual destruction of the American Republican form of government.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT
"I'll Be Back in the Fall If —"

The Senate is particularly nervous over the course of events as Mr. Roosevelt shapes them.

Hence his remark at Warm Springs, as he was leaving for Washington, has given the Senate pause. He said:

"I'll be back in the fall if we don't have a war!"

To numerous Senators that was the most ominous language used by an American President in the memory of this generation.

In private conversation many Senators reveal themselves as more "worked up" over today's ominous situation with respect of American foreign affairs, than any Senators have been since the great battle to keep the United States out of the League of Nations was fought and won.

IN SHORT, the United States has jumped into European politics up to its ears and when the President at Warm Springs said, "I'll be back in the fall if we don't have a war," the sentence almost gave already jittery Senators a heart attack.

The remark has still further confused Senate opinion—and to a considerable extent House opinion—on the all important, and not much longer to be delayed, issue of neutrality.

From there having been six or seven conflicting theories at the Senate last week, this week started off with no fewer than 49. From a welter of conflicting opinion will shortly emerge a nation-shaking debate.

WYNN LAMENTS WEIGHT LOSS

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, April 14.—Ed Wynn was at home in his Park Avenue apartment recently, recuperating from a recent illness. He called his son, Keenan, and started to shave his face. "I used to weigh 185, and I've lost 35 pounds in the last few weeks," he told his son, Keenan. . . . Wynn was half finished shaving and asked, "Yes, 35 pounds" . . . He stopped and looked at his features once and told Keenan, "Look for yourself" . . . "It says 152 pounds," his son informed. "And don't forget," Wynn reminded . . . "that's with a razor in my hand!"

MISTAKE.—Wes Lowe, son of Sylvia Lee, will have to learn how to spell his name. It's called Dave Still Can Sing, and Wes Lowe wrote an introduction which he said his father agreed wasn't quite right. . . . She says I never forget to order the deletion of that introduction and so it has to be yanked from the 5000 copies already printed. Twelve copies with the introduction have been retained. . . . ROMANCE.—Margaret Lewis, Walter Winchell's secretary, was married last night to Lt. Lee Kaplan, U. S. Army Air Corps, at a reception at the home of Walter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Winchell. . . . They were having dinner at the Lido when Walter suggested that they drive to Stamford, Conn., to be married. . . . Lee refused, saying that he'd like to be married in his uniform. . . . Walter phoned Lee's father, who arranged the wedding. . . . The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. . . . Walter was best man, and Lee's sister, Miss Margaret Kaplan, was maid of honor. . . . Walter's mother gave a dinner for the newlyweds at the Stork Club. . . . IT IS LIKELY that the 52nd week, last of the Unemployment Compensation in New York, will mean a series of payless paydays as the prospect for a continuance of work relief jobs next year dims. . . . State Speeds Action To End Fuel Strike curb on McLellan highway, were arrested and charged with using violence in picketing.

The men were booked as Hyman Cullerton of Medford, Edward J. Boyle of Charlestown and Patrick Dobson, 25, of Malden at Charlestown. Previously East Boston police had arrested a picket in Central sq. on a charge of drunkenness.

In Chelsea court today Cullerton, Boyle and Dobson all pleaded not guilty to violating the picketing law and were released in $25 bail each for a hearing next Thursday.

Commissioner McSweeney revealed that with only a few days' fuel supply left in the city, he had requested the Public Utilities Commission to issue temporary permits to trucks to operate without the signing of contracts. Hospitals, schools and public institutions were also serviced with coal and oil.

Union heads issued instructions to pickets to refrain from stopping small individual owners peddling coal to homes in the outlying areas and the threat of shortage there was relieved.

One union dealer complained to police however, that six men ringed from a section and opened fire against his trucks. About 200 gallons of kerosene were lost.

Judge Abraham Brannak, in Superior court granted injunctions to the Tenney and American oil companies whose trucks are manned by CIO drivers, restraining Business Agent Henry A. Kelleher, Secretary John J. Donovan and other officers and members of Local 59 AFL from interfering with the passage of their trucks.

The injunctions returnable for hearing March 6 were granted following complaint of the companies that picket cars had turned back their gasoline and wholesale trucks, and threatened drivers and equipment.

THREATS DENIED

Union officials denied there had been threats, insisting pickets had strict instructions to use only "peaceful persuasion" in their operations against members of the Retail Fuel Institute and other firms which locked out drivers.

Union officials granted permission to more than 200 of the smaller North Shore, East Boston, Everett and Chelsea independent fuel concerns to make deliveries every weekday until 1 o'clock and all day Saturdays it was announced.

Quick Tricks With Those Food Left-Overs

FROM MARTHA LEES FRIDAY BROADCAST OVER STATION WHEX—11:30 A. M.

In every refrigerator there are left-overs and left-overs. Some, you can tuck in the refrigerator with impunity, sure of a good way to use them in a day, or so. Take a few slivers of chicken, for instance, or left-over leg of lamb. You know you can add peas and pimento to a cream sauce with the chicken and serve a dressy chicken a la king.

And the leg of lamb can be diced and used in a meat and vegetable pie. But when it comes to something like mashed potatoes, you are likely to overlook the fact that they can be used for some thing besides potato cakes.

So we know that you'll welcome this new way of using them as a topping for Quick Cottage Pie. Just reheat them with a little hot milk, then top a casseroleful of meat and vegetables with them as suggested here.

QUICK COTTAGE PIE

1½ to 2 cups diced left-over meat (lamb, beef, pork or veal)
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 16 oz. can vegetable soup
Left-over mashed potatoes

Brown the meat in butter, add flour and blend well. Add the vegetable soup and cook, stirring constantly until thick and boiling. Pour into a baking dish or casserole and cover with a layer of leftover mashed potatoes that have been made fluffy again by beating up with a small amount of hot milk. Brown in a moderate oven (375 deg F.) about 15 minutes.

Another fine way to use up left-over mashed potatoes is to combine them with ground round steak in meat cakes.

Then for the finishing touch pour a can[illegible] of onion soup over the meat cakes and let them simmer in this savory sauce while you set the table and finish up the rest of the dinner.

GRILLED SIRLOIN STEAK WITH ONION GRAVY

1 lb. ground round steak
2 cups[illegible] mashed potatoes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Flour
2 tablespoons fat
1 10 oz. can[illegible] onion soup
Combine ground steak, mashed potatoes, salt and pepper. Mix well and form into[illegible] cakes. Dredge cakes with flour and brown in hot fat in a[illegible] skillet. Add[illegible] of soup, cover and simmer[illegible] minutes.

Still another way to dress left-overs is to serve some appetizing vegetable in such an all active way that it will take attention from the leftover dish at serving time.

So next time you want a fine new way to dress up a head of cauliflower serve cauliflower with creole sauce.

CAULIFLOWER WITH CREOLE SAUCE

1 large head cauliflower
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 3 cup chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 12 oz. can tomato juice

Separate cauliflower[illegible] then cook in well salted, rapidly boiling water[illegible] tender. Drain. Sauté onion and green pepper in butter, add salt, sugar and flour and blend well. Add tomato juice and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Pour over cauliflower.

Bashful Boys Real Problem

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I[illegible] a young man[illegible] and I like[illegible] couple[illegible] last[illegible] we[illegible] MANNY.

It will be[illegible] to encourage a young man whose sister is an acquaintance of yours even though he is shy. Invite both of them to your house, at the same time you ask some other young people. Perhaps his bashfulness will disappear in a crowd. I can't guarantee that this will help as some shy boys like to be asked to girls' homes, while others are apt to draw further into their shells.

Intriguing New Perfume

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S A LOVELY time of day . . . when the minutes merge into darkness, and it is neither night nor day . . . there's a haunting query about twilight that is an undeniable part of a pearl new perfume from France which is named for that remarkably beautiful span of time.

Twilight for some brings a dreamy sense of soft peace . . . twilight for others is a widening of the eyes in new, electric awareness; a sper twilight has unmistakable meanings. It is the unexpected, delightful pe of this new perfume that it too has a different meaning for everyone who breathes it in.

In France where the perfume was first introduced, during the experiments which were necessary to confirm the creators' strong suspicion that here was something really new both men and women were of widely varying opinions on its character. To some it would be a delightful "light accent" for[illegible] inside[illegible] and unblended flow[illegible] of the most delicate fragrance.

To learn about this new perfume from France, with such an infinitely varied personality, phone Arline Gould Liberty 4000, weekdays until 5:30 or write inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Camilla

by Anne Stretton, who wrote 'PROPOSAL'

Who's Who and What's Happened:

CAMILLA and MARK might have come into a fine inheritance of their father, a famous but eccentric writer, had married their mother. But this he neglected to do, and when he died he left no provision for his children. He did, however, leave a life interest in the house to their mother.

GLADYS, who had no maternal affection at all for Camilla and Mark. And he willed the lands of Dore to

SIMON, a cousin. Simon managed the estate efficiently, and was like a brother to Camilla and Mark. They had no idea Simon was in love until the day he brought his fiancee,

EVELYN, to Dore. Instinctively they disliked her, and knew that the feeling was mutual. To Mark's amazement, on his sixteenth birthday, Simon told him he had made over Dore to him. Mark thanked him, and later wrote him a letter, which he left in a library, expressing his gratitude. Camilla found Evelyn reading this letter. They quarreled, and Simon, entering the library, sent Camilla to her room. When she was unable to shake Simon's determination to give Mark his father's property, Evelyn broke her engagement. That night she came to Simon's room to say she had reconsidered and would marry him.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

ON the morning of Simon's wedding day, Camilla looked at herself earnestly in the mirror of her dressing table. She thought "I believe I am pretty," and her reflection glanced back at her, seeming to smile before she did.

It was a fortnight since Simon, arriving at Dore for a couple of days, had found Camilla playing with the sheepdog's puppies in the yard of the home farm. He had asked whether she had got her kit for the wedding yet.

She shook her head, sitting back on her heels to look up at him.

"Well, you can't go dressed like that," he said.

"No, I know." She glanced down at her old tweed jacket and breeches. "I don't think I'll be able to go, Simon. There's such a lot of things." Her voice trailed off. The fact that the names of different materials meant nothing to her, that she had never in her life possessed more than five shillings that she had no idea where to get a hat, even if the village dressmaker could make her up a frock, or what kind of frock and hat they should be—all this seemed far too complicated to explain. The question of shoes, alone, was enough.

"Do you want to go?" Simon asked.

"Of course, Simon!"

"You'd better do something about it then. Have you asked your mother about your clothes?"

Oh yes, but she says it's silly—me going to the wedding at all, I guess."

"Well, you'd better write to a shop yourself," Simon said impatiently, annoyed at having to...

"Harrods will do. I should think. Here's the address." He scribbled it on the back of an envelope. "Leave those puppies, and go and do it now. Tell Harrods they're to send you a complete outfit for a wedding in London. And tell them to charge it to my account."

Camilla got up obediently from her knees, and put the puppies back into their run.

"All right," Simon said, in answer to her thanks. "You can give me the letter this afternoon before I leave for Cheltenham."

Camilla brought it to him in the hall, after luncheon. He looked with distaste at the mottled green envelope.

WEDDING CLOTHES

Must you use this filthy green paper?" he asked. "Where did you get it?"

"From Miss Fleck's shop. I hadn't got any paper to write to Mark on . . . Miss Fleck said it was smart."

"I daresay." Simon replied drily, "but I shouldn't write to Mark on it, in fact, I shouldn't use it at all. If you're short of notepaper, you can have some of mine. You'd better take some now and copy out this letter."

He was about to hand the letter back to her, when the unformed character of the writing on the envelope struck him with a doubt of what it might be about. He opened it.

"DEAR SIR," he read.

"Please send me a frock and a hat and some gloves and shoes and stockings to wear at a wedding in London. Mr. Simon Wintre will pay for them. His address is 107 Duke st St James London S. W. 1. But please send all the clothes to me. My address is Miss Duggon Dore Hall Gyverston. I am rather slim and five feet six inches. Yours sincerely Camilla Duggon."

To Camilla's horrified disgust, Simon tore up this letter without comment. Then he sat down and wrote a note which would result in a selection of clothes being put over at Dore.

Three days later the clothes came and were tried on in tremendous excitement. There was no one but the servants to admire them. Simon was no longer at Dore when they arrived, nor, Camilla knew, would he have been interested if he had been there.

As to Gladys, when Camilla took the clothes to her room, she said: "Take those silly things out of here and keep out of here yourself!" being roused to [illegible] her usual morning [illegible] these preparations [illegible] of two people who [illegible] did.

So Camilla went down to the kitchen and [illegible] maids in all the [illegible] low chiffon. They were [illegible] admiration, and even Mrs Bowyer after a glance at Ca[illegible] eyes and flushed [illegible] nothing.

Mark came up from Wi[illegible] for the wedding, incredible in a silk hat, morning coat and buff waistcoat. Simon had chosen to lunch at Claridge's with his [illegible] and his best man, and he had a [illegible] of astonishment when he first saw Camilla for the time in her new clothes.

SOLEMN WEDDING

And then, after a little, the fact that this was the same Camilla who ran about Dore in breeches and Mark's outgrown jacket, became more credible. She looked a little like a child who has been "dressing up."

He smiled, remembering how he had come upon her, a fortnight ago, kneeling in the straw among the puppies, in despair of seeing his wedding, and suddenly he realized that she was very pretty.

The ceremony at St [illegible] Hanover Square was [illegible] experience to Camilla. She didn't realized that it should be [illegible]

For a moment as she stood at Evelyn in her white [illegible] long glittering train, the [illegible] of her mother came to [illegible] unexpected vividness.

It was impossible [illegible] standing [illegible] for the altar. And yet, [illegible] reflected with sudden pity, she must have been [illegible] with her blue eyes and [illegible] hair, before she became [illegible] and fat.

And, as Camilla knew [illegible] belonged to be properly [illegible] well she might, Camilla [illegible] it meant being the center of such an impressive occasion.

"Those whom God hath joined together, let not man put asunder," said the priest.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

I hope I'm right about Richard Carlson. I have maintained that he's a star material and one of the most promising young actors to appear on the screen in a long time. He will get his chance in Metro's Anne Shirley's "Winter Carnival" with Ann Sheridan, another young player who has forged ahead.

Young Carlson is doing in his New York show and will return to Hollywood almost immediately. He had to fly there, but this is the first time he has been free to [illegible]

Dorothy Lee, whose marriage to the Wall Street millionaire Atwater Kent, Jr., is due to be more or less of a mystery, is coming back to the screen again. I say this because Dorothy has all as well between her and seems to stay out here most of the time while her husband remains in the East.

GILBERT-SULLIVAN FESTIVAL OPENS MONDAY AT COLONIAL

DELMA BYRON plays one of the featured roles in "The Women," opening Monday night at the Boston Opera House at popular prices.

'The Mikado' Will Start Four-Week Engagement

It is always a pleasure to welcome the players of Gilbert and Sullivan to Boston, and as such we can [illegible] the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company of London as friends coming [illegible] [illegible] the representative [illegible] Maude Jones [illegible]

The distinguished visitors from across the Atlantic have just finished an enormously successful engagement in New York City and come here to the Colonial Theater for a four weeks' engagement of festival of Gilbert and Sullivan operettas — commencing Monday evening.

In addition to the familiar faces of Marjorie Eyre, Evelyn Gardiner, Margery Abbott, Martyn Green, Leslie Randa, Sydney Granville, Darrell Fancourt, John Dean, William Sumner and Richard Walker, there are three British favorites who have made their American debuts—Helen Roberts, coloratura soprano; Viola Wilson, lyric soprano, and John Dean, a handsome, youthful tenor.

Accredited reviewers assert that the organization is better than it has been in years—a rather formidable declaration when recalling the splendid performances of yesterday.

The half hundred choristers are as attractive and musically endowed as ever, and the [illegible] and masterful Isidore Godfrey, [illegible] director, with [illegible] F. Ward as assistant. [illegible] Arnold returns as stage manager with T. Perry Hobson as assistant.

Harry Haste [illegible] head of the mechanical [illegible] the executive staff [illegible] with Frederick H. [illegible] business manager, Leonard [illegible] ex-

The opening performance will be the evergreen "The Mikado" [illegible] to [illegible] the final bill of [illegible] "Ruddigore," "The Pirates of Penzance," "The Gondoliers" and all the favorite [illegible] of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Box office sale of seats begins Monday morning at 9:30.

Midnight Show At Old Howard

Nora Ford will be the feature performer at the Old Howard's regular Friday midnight show starting tonight at 11:30 o'clock.

Grim Czech Scenes in Film

When [illegible] girl and [illegible] the Czech [illegible] now at the [illegible] reads dispatches from Central Europe today the [illegible] to her mind [illegible] and anxious [illegible] [illegible] often recalls [illegible] the chimney smoke from [illegible] chimney smoke [illegible] over by German [illegible]

"I remember feeling ashamed," she says, "when we went out to take pictures of them. I saw a mother take a shawl from her own shoulders and wrap it and a quilt about her little [illegible]. Yet, in a fur coat, I was [illegible] cold I had to go back to our car to get my feet warm. Yet these people had been in No Man's Land for eight days.

Stage Success Returns Here at Popular Prices

Boston is to have a "first [illegible] will be [illegible] Women" Clare Boothe's comedy, presented [illegible] at the Forrest Theater [illegible]

The comedy is far [illegible] dramatical stage so far as [illegible] forming the dramatic and [illegible] values of the play, is concerned. Two seasons of continuous [illegible] training of the country's largest cities, besides the three [illegible] at New York, precedes its [illegible] tion.

For the first time in the [illegible] of A. G. Munro, veteran [illegible] manager, a reigning success will be placed on the box office bargain counter, so to speak.

Last season The Women played the Colonial at a top scale of $2.75. Now, with the same production and cast seen here at the previous engagement and Max Gordon, its producer, has announced a price scale for the coming engagement at the Boston Opera House, for one week only beginning Monday, that is revolutionary for its drastic reduction.

Why the experiment in a low price scale? Mr. Gordon believes that there are as many, if not more, potential theater goers who cannot buy high priced seats, and who therefore do not see successful plays in the legitimate theater, then there are regular patrons.

So for the remainder of the four of "The Women" the price scale will be cut in two. Here at the Opera House, where the second engagement of "The Women" begins Monday, the highest price seats will be $1.10, for both matinee and night performances. The dollar price (plus tax) will be for all the orchestra and first row balcony seats, with the second balcony at 25 cents. Although the price experiment is being tried for the first time in Boston, it was successfully put into operation recently in Philadelphia, where the company closed an engagement of nine weeks to absolutely capacity business.

2 MORE DAYS FOR RECORDS

Today and tomorrow (A.D.) more chances (I) win a set of 10 choice records, the gift of Paul Whiteman.

Take a look at the questions and decide which of the three answers given for each is right and cross off the two that aren't. It's a cinch to answer a few of them, but to get all 20 right and win the Whiteman records you'll have to be a real student of popular music. Read the rules carefully, then get busy and send your answers to JACK SHAW RECORD CONTEST, Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass.

[illegible]

RECORD CONTEST No. 6

Do You Know Swing?

Here are today's musical questions, each with three possible answers. Cross out the two you believe wrong, leaving the one you think is right. Then on a separate piece of paper, write a 20-word answer to the "What Do You Think" question at the bottom. Send coupon and answer to JACK SHAW RECORD CONTEST, Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston, Mass.

The winner will be notified by mail. Decision of the judges will be final. Contest closes at 10 A. M. Monday.

THE QUESTIONS

1—At college Kay Kayser was prominent in what student activity?
(A) Editor. (B) Band leader (C) Cheer leader

2—Where did the Suzy-Q originate?
(A) Charleston. (B) New Orleans. (C) Harlem

3—Who wrote the words for "Deep Purple?"
(A) Jack Robbins. (B) Peter De Rose. (C) Mitchell Parish

4 Which of these three songs was written by Hoagy Carmichael?
(A) Swamp Fire. (B) Chloe (C) Washboard Blues

5—Who wrote "I've Got Rythm?"
(A) Jerome Kern. (B) George Gershwin. (C) Otto Harbach.

WHAT DO YOU THINK:
Will be the next twist in dance music—more swing, New Orleans corn, or sweet swing and why?

Nine 'Puck' Prizes To N. E. Contestants

Boy and girl readers of the Boston Sunday Advertiser shared honors almost equally in the Hearst Comic Weekly, Puck Stars and Stripes Prize Puzzle Club contest for the week of April 2. A girl won the "Star-Prize" but a boy came right along and walked off with the handsome diploma.

So the 10 allied awards—as well as adding to the 100 other cash prizes of $1 each distributed nationally every week.

Rose Rachmuth of 224 East Fifth Lee road, Bogota, N. J., gets the Star Prize. Accurate award of $2 goes to her, making her winnings for the week $3 in all.

Buzz Wade, cub editor-in-chief of Puck, is nominating that paper's Boston staff member, Mel, gets the gold-trimmed, natural puzzle champion's badge for his fine answers. Wade then adds, gives a Star Prize of $1 to the gang. $2 in all.

His diploma is signed by Billy and Betty Wade and "Auditing" Director of Publications Jim Bowers of Bridgeport. It can almost pay, as can Robert and made the $1 prize of the Haven, Ct.

Bridgeport, Conn., is the years and Stripes puzzle page in your near-

Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Most prize experts this week are in the Bonus Army and 622 per cent of this answer went to straighten out.

Winners of the April 9 contest will be announced in your Boston Evening American next Friday.

New England winners of the April 2 contest each of whom will receive a cash prize of $1 are:

Leslie Eagles, North Dighton; Alice O Severance, South Maple avenue, Bradford; Francis Le Blanc, Duddy avenue, Waltham; C. M. Fitzpatrick, East Concord street, Boston; Donald Edward Long, Meade street, Allston; Helen Keating, Estabrook road, Wellesley; Juanita Lapiton, Cohasset street, Taunton.

Ruth Ewaskie, Howe street, New Haven, Ct.

Rosario Plaisance, Manville avenue, Manville, R. I.

Hub Unaffected By Air Strike

Air service from Boston to other major cities of the United States was on regular schedule today unaffected by the strike of Eastern Airlines mechanics at [illegible] but key posts.

Acting simultaneously, veteran repair men and mechanics of the Eastern lines walked out at New York, Washington, Atlanta and Miami.

A. P. Martin of Newark, N. J., pilot of one of the mechanics' ships, said he was the first to walk out in sympathy with the strikers.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Airlines, declared that 90 of the company's 240 maintenance men joined the walkout. Chief mechanics at each airport remained on duty, he said, and men who went on strike were replaced by experienced workers.

Public Ownership Seen for Hub 'El

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

As the price of Boston Elevated common slipped steadily lower in recent sessions State Streeters naturally concerned themselves with speculation as to the whys and wherefores of current plans for the railway's future.

The gamut of questions financial observers are forced to run is studded with probabilities . . . So many, that the best course is to eliminate those that appear barred by legal considerations . . . From a purely State Street angle, without consideration of political possibilities, we made a survey of our own . . . Among those we feel are well informed on financial matters in general . . . And have also consistently followed developments concerning Boston Elevated . . .

SUMMED UP . . . Such observers believe public ownership will be consummated this year . . . Return to private ownership, in their opinion, is out of the question . . . Because the present contract effectively blocks such a move . . . It is looked upon as a perfect legal instrument . . . Purchase price is the one thing to be decided . . . And it is likely to be arrived at by court proceedings connected with a State move to take over the property by eminent domain . . . If the Legislature fails to authorize a formal bid, State Streeters allow plenty of room for the lack of such an offer in view of the valuation difficulties now, and to be encountered . . .

SUCCESS . . . Of the drive to attract new industries, as well as to release employment, occupied the attention of those attending the fifth annual N. E. Industrial Development Conference today at the Parker House. Colonel Arthur D. Payne of the New England Council presided at the morning session, devoted to a symposium on Increasing New England's Industrial Strength . . . Among other speakers heard were Albert E. Noelte, presiding officer for the afternoon sessions and chairman of the councils community development committee . . . Ralph Flanders, president of the Jones & Lamson Machine Co. of Springfield, Vt . . . And C. P. Wood, industrial engineer of Lockwood Greene Engineers, Inc., of New York . . .

BUILDING . . . Which we have long maintained holds the key to real recovery in the section is holding up well . . . Latest full month figures for Massachusetts are excellent . . . And if the trend follows through in the months ahead, fears of a break-down in the move to more prosperous times can be forgotten . . . Permit applications filed in 55 Bay State municipalities during March were 88 per cent above February . . .

SALES INCREASE . . . Reported by the Allied Kid Co. for last month is another bullish pointer on the industry . . . And the dollar value of the gain is remarkably similar to the upturn in physical volume . . . Thus it is not a price situation . . . In percentage terms the respective figures are 22 per cent and 21 per cent gains over March 1938 . . .

APRIL 19 . . . Will be a holiday for workers in the Boston financial district . . . While the Stock Exchange will suspend general operations such of the facilities as are necessary to the settlement of transactions will be open . . . Offices of dealers will be open for business as usual . . . And most brokers indicate skeleton forces at least, will be called in even if the pendulum should swing the other way. Beck said that in the circumstance he was stressing long term wage contracts.

Beck's power extends far beyond his own teamsters' union. He said the steamsters worked for various types of business and would be victimized by labor disputes in the various crafts. Accordingly it is his policy to keep ahead of such disputes, and to try to create a negotiated labor peace.

I have reflected Beck's professed views because he is a power out here. It seems advisable in the interests of better industrial relationships to attempt some social interpretation of the views on both sides of the capital and labor front. Beck summed up his professed views by saying that it was his job to assure as many man hours of employment as possible at the best practical wages.

Seattle Labor Czar Tells Philosophy

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

SEATTLE, April 14 (INS)—If Dave Beck is labor czar of Seattle and the northwest, he likes to envisage himself as a benevolent despot. He takes pride in attaining gains for his members without the economic loss of sustained strikes, preferring the art of negotiation and persuasion.

Mr. Beck likes to think of himself as a practical man, who knows what is said about in the business world. He thinks it silly for labor agitators to name "arbitrary and boiled-noodle demands" which spell bankruptcy for their employers. He felt he must be likes to make workable arrangements which will stick through the years.

Mr. Beck, a shrewd boy, who started out as a driver of a laundry wagon, declares that employers, except those opposed to the philosophy of unionism, may come to deal with him willingly. Several employers on inquiry did reply:

"At least, Beck can be counted upon to keep his word."

Beck denounced efforts of some labor groups to take advantage of the fact that organized labor is temporarily in the saddle. He said that this condition of dominance might change too, and that he wanted equitable arrangements which employers would continue

Sellers Again Knock Stock Prices Lower

NEW YORK, April 14 (AP)—Sellers regained control of the stock market today and leading issues fell back 1 to around 3 points.

Activity dwindled after the opening, however, and prices were moderately above the lows around midday.

Weakness of securities at London, Paris and Amsterdam seemed to reflect fresh apprehension over European war dangers and was taken as a cue by traders in the home market to lighten commitments in addition, outstanding inquiration on the business front still appeared to be lacking.

U. S. MONEY MART GEARED FOR WAR

By CECIL B. DICKSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 14 (INS) Fearing war is imminent in Europe, the Roosevelt administration today considered plans to keep open American security and commodity markets and renewed pressure on Congress to re-enact the President's extraordinary monetary powers, including authority to devalue gold and silver.

Emergency machinery can be thrown into action on a moment's notice to enable this country to withstand the shock of international conflict abroad, a high administration spokesman said after secret conferences of the government's monetary and market chiefs.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in charge of commodity market regulation, securities and exchange members, and Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board participated in the conferences.

GOVERNMENT UNWORRIED

The authorized spokesman, representing President Roosevelt, said the government was "unworried" and that plans are ready to keep the markets operating in an "orderly manner."

The administration urged expedition of the Somers' bill, continuing for two years the $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund and the President's authority to devalue gold and silver.

Wage-Hour Law Curbs 'Chiselers'

ATLANTA, April 14 (AP)—Administrator Elmer F. Andrews predicted tonight that if the wage and hour act fails, the people will demand, and probably get, a much more drastic measure.

"Experience to date," he told the Emory University Law Institute, "encourages us to believe we are going to encounter no insurmountable difficulty in enforcement."

"I believe our principal task is going to be the policing of the marginal areas. It is the irresponsible operator, and especially the fugitive from state regulation who has been causing our major headaches," Andrews added.

Andrews asserted "The American people support the law and the [illegible] business men we [illegible] want more buying power [illegible] security and they want [illegible]

Chain Tax Loses

ATLANTA, Me., April 14. A proposed chain store tax was voted down 17 to 11, in the Maine senate after it had been approved by the house. Proponents plan to amend the bill in the hope of receiving executive say it can't be amended to that extent.

Bruins Masters Of Weary Leafs

TORONTO, April 14—The Boston Bruins scaled the heights of glory and stormed the parapet of bliss. Which is a fancy way of saying that they won the fourth contest for the Stanley Sterling Cuspidor. The Maple Leafs fell off the precipice of doom and bogged down in the slough of despond. Which is a manner of saying that they lost.

AUSTEN LAKE

The score was 2 to ouch in a game of contrasting moods with only a few intervals when it resembled the Alpha Chapter of teamsters fun-fighting the Beta Brotherhood of longshoremen. The rest of the time it looked like your little sister Minnie playing tag with the puppy—a heatless frolic which caused the Toronto crowd to gnaw its cuffs in an agony of frustration. Indeed, for the first time one heard derisive tongue burbles and saw hometown loyalists pinch their nostrils 'twixt thumb and forefinger as their heroes wobbled around like men in an opium dream.

Casey Stengel Says Bees Are Stronger

Club Has Ample Reserve Strength

CASEY STENGEL, back in Boston with the Bees today, believes he has got a ball club this year that is going to cause a great deal of trouble for other National League clubs.

"For the first time since I came to the Bees I believe we possess some real baseball strength," said Stengel. "In addition to our regulars we have replacements and also some youngsters we shall keep strings on while they improve in the minor leagues.

"When I was with Brooklyn it was always difficult to make a deal with the Bees as they seldom had a player they could spare. Bob Quinn and John Quinn have organized a splendid system of farms, and we are now being furnished with plenty of promising youngsters who are going to become stars.

"This 18-year-old infielder, Sisti, keeps improving over night. He has fielding ability and can hit. Two years from now he will be one of the stars of the National League.

"Eddie Miller will give a punch to our infield. Miller is a flashy fielder, and will get his share of extra base hits. We were fortunate to get Miller, especially when one remembers he played for Kansas City which is a Yankee farm.

"A major league club must have its own minor league affiliations if it is to get a fair share of the new material. You cannot expect clubs like the Cardinals and Yankees, who control numerous minor league clubs, to let many good players slip through their hands."

Spirit of Veteran Ball Players Is Better

STENGEL DECLARED that the spirit of the veteran ball players is better as a result of the farm system.

"In the old days a young ball player had to fight a job," said Stengel. "Other than the manager nobody will teach him anything, and the veteran players were hoping he would break a leg.

"Conditions have changed with major league clubs controlling five and six minor league farms. The veterans know that if they show the proper spirit and learn how to teach young ball players that there is a job awaiting them as manager of a farm team or as a coach.

"Take the case of Al Lopez. In the South he spent hours of his time coaching Masi and Andrews. Al is anxious to develop these youngsters into top catchers. I hope it will be many years before Lopez gives up taking his regular turn behind the bat, but when he does he will be one of the most valuable members of our organization."

Looks for Simmons to Hit .300

STENGEL EXPECTS Al Simmons to [illegible].

"Simmons is a natural hitter," said Stengel, "and should not have any difficulty hitting for .300. Al has worked hard in the South and has reduced his weight. His earnestness and knowledge of baseball plays makes up for his lack of speed.

"Simmons will play left field, while Hassett will start the season in right field. John Cooney is still the best of our center fielders. I would like to get some youngster to play center field. Such a happening would solve one of my chief troubles.

"Fletcher has been playing better at first base, and should continue to do so. I do not believe anybody will find fault with Tony Cuccinello, who is still one of the great second basemen."

It is generally admitted that the Bees have superior pitching to the Sox, while Joe Cronin's club has the power. The Bees have improved in their hitting, while [illegible] Auker, Wade and [illegible] certainly increased the strength of the Sox pitching staff.

Personally, I am anxious to see how the Bees and Sox will shape up in their preview before opening fans. Both games are quite interesting and hard fought.

BILL'S SPORT-O-GRIMES

TORONTO, April 14—It won't, or at least it shouldn't be, long before the Bruins will reclaim the Stanley Cup, which they let slip through their fingers, nine years ago.

Young Roy Conacher came into his own last night.

For an ex-amateur, with no professional hockey experience until this year, he came up with the tallies that gave the Rossmen a 2 to 0 victory over the Maple Leafs in a world's championship is a very rare achievement . . . Lionel Conacher, the big train, who was mainly responsible for the two Stanley Cup series that Tommy Gorman won for Chicago and Maroons beamed all over while getting "mugged" with his kid brother . . . Before the game, "Chuck" Conacher predicted that Roy would score two goals . . . not bad picking . . . Bobby Bauer has been handicapped by a heavy cold since arriving here . . . Hal Ballard presented Connie Smythe with a side-walk brick which he alleged was taken from a Boston fan before the opening game of the series.

Lionel Conacher

It was suitably inscribed and it had been made over into a pen and ink set . . . Don Meta made a very favorable impression . . . He's a far more rugged player than brother Nick . . . The Bruins have tied up Gordie Drillon and Syl Apps during this series . . . and that's the reason they are coming home leading 3 to 1 . . . the Rossmen won't leave a stone unturned to wind up this series Sunday night . . . They have had their fill of hockey for this season . . . "Dit" Clapper bought some fishing tackle . . . he'll head for the wide open spaces as soon as the world's title is back in the Hub . . .

Norman Lamport has refereed two very fine games during this series . . . he is a trifle lenient with the players as to high sticks and roughing . . . otherwise, he's almost perfect . . . Connie Smythe drove me and Vic Jones to Oshawa, home of the General Motors of Canada . . . We saw Billy Taylor's desk but the junior hockey player, who is the talk of the Dominion for scoring nine goals and five assists against the Edmonton Roamers in two memorial cup games, was missing . . . The desk seemingly hasn't been in use for many moons . . . There are no balconies in the Maple Leaf Gardens, so the standees string along behind the rails behind the "Blues," "Greens" and "Grays" sections . . .

There were many fans over from the Kitchener-Waterloo-Preston section to cheer for the Krauts . . . Until he was certain that Apps, Drillon and Davidson were "down," Art Ross sent the Kitchener kids out every time Dick Irvin gave the nod to his top line . . . "Bingo" Kampman's penalty early in the first period, sunk the Leafs . . . The Bruins took plenty of punishment without retaliating . . .

* * *

Ray Getliffe was the only Rossman to come back at a Leaf and he drew a penalty at a bad time . . . Frank Brimsek didn't have to make many tough saves . . . But two were gems . . . In the first period, Murphy Chamberlain rifled a shot through three or four pair of legs but somehow Frankie didn't lose sight of th epuck and made a great stop . . . Then, in the second stanza, while the Bruins were putting on a power play, with Red Heron in the box, Bob Davidson broke out of his zone and had nobody to beat but Brimsek . . . As usual, Frankie stood his ground and Bob's shot hit right on the old pads . . . It was the ball game, if Davidson had scored . . .

Bruins Off for Home With Two-Game Lead

By BILL GRIMES

TORONTO, Ont., April 14—After losing the third game of the Stanley Cup series on Tuesday, the Maple Leafs' board of strategy (Connie Smythe) must have been convinced that his charges didn't have a chance to defeat the Bruins, unless they had the advantage of some extra man power.

So the Maple Leafs changed their tactics. Seemingly, they went out to get the Boston keymen off the ice, via the penalty route. They tore into the Rossmen with every weapon at their command.

However, Art Ross had seen the Maple Leafs pull that stunt three years ago, and come up with a victory in a two goals to count series, after trailing four tallies.

Before the game, Art Ross called the turn on the Toronto plan of play. He warned his men to remain on the ice. They were to take whatever the Maple Leafs handed out without a comeback. It was a tough assignment for Ross to lassie and a tougher one for his players to carry out.

ROSS' ADVICES PAY

But it paid dividends and that's what the boys are out there to earn. For the first two minutes, Red Horner and Bingo Kampman took off at every Bruin that came into the Toronto zone. And, frequently, they even went up into the center zone to get their man.

Finally, as the clock showed that the game had been in progress for two minutes, "Bingo" became a trifle too strenuous during a mix up with Herbie Schmidt and Referee Lamport shipped him over to the penalty box for a two minute rest.

Then, it was that Roy Conacher popped home his first goal. The Maple Leaf style of play had boomeranged. Roy took a pass from Mel Hill in the neutral zone, sailed around Reg Hamilton and beat "Turk" Broda on the shortside.

That was all that the Bruins needed. Just one goal, which they protected by about every known type of defensive hockey and out and out stalling. They weren't playing to entertain the Toronto fans. They are in quest of the Stanley Cup.

They figured that if the Leafs had elected to mow them down and they were under orders to remain on the ice, regardless of the tactics of their hosts, then, they'd take as little punishment as possible by ragging the puck and not allowing their defense men to rush.

GETLIFFE DUMPED

Just as soon as Ray Getliffe made his first appearance, Gus Marker got under him coming down the left wing boards and gave him the old heave ho. Ray's skate flew up over the rail and just missed nicking a box customer for a flock of stitches.

Shortly afterwards, Red Horner and Bingo Kampman charged little Bobby Bauer into the side boards, and it was a miracle that the plucky right winger wasn't hurt. Herbie Schmidt contacted Horner in the center zone on the next rush, and he dropped the Toronto captain with a dull, sickening thud.

The Leafs continued to go after the Bruins and as the clock swung by the 13-minute mark, Horner stepped into Cowley in center ice and Bill hit the deck. It looked like the Bruin had been hurt, but instead he was simply putting on an act, for a second later he grabbed the puck for a length of the ice solo, which came within a great save from being a goal.

Although the Leafs had violated most of the rules, they didn't get another penalty until 5:45 in the second period, when Red Heron grabbed Bill Hollett's arm and hung around for about five yards. That was a little too brazen, so off went Red. Finally Horner and Bauer clashed again in Toronto territory and Bobby got conked on his noggin by Red's stick. But there wasn't any penalty.

REFEREE LAX

It didn't seem possible that the Bruins would be able to hold their heads under the circumstances. But they followed Art Ross' orders to the letter until Ray Getliffe mixed up with Kampman and wound up in the penalty box.

Getliffe's penalty put the Rossmen on the "spot." Cooney Weiland and Bill Hollett were sent out to "kill" the penalty and did a great job.

Then Colby, Hill and Conacher ragged the puck in center ice and the last two minutes of the Bruin the Leafs were dizzy trying to get the disc away from some Bruin.

There was a near jam down in the corner early in the third period, when Kampman because a trifle too free with his elbows. For a few moments, it looked like Clapper Crawford, Kampman and Chamberlain might start swinging but they didn't get any more dangerous than high sticking.

After Roy Conacher scored his second goal at 13.48 of the third period, the pressure was off, for it was then almost a certainty that the Maple Leafs were beaten.

The Bruins will leave for home tonight with a two-game advantage on the Leafs because they followed Art Ross' instructions to remain on the ice. They are real soldiers, for they took a beating in order to establish a lien on the Stanley Cup.

ROY CONACHER, Bruins' Stanley Cup hero, reads a couple of new ones to spring on Toronto Maple Leafs in game at Garden, Sunday.

Casey Retains Mat Title

Steve "Crusher" Casey successfully defended his world's heavyweight wrestling crown last night at the Boston Garden when he pinned Marvin Westenberg, the former Masked Marvel, in a marathon battle that lasted one hours and 12 minutes.

The champ, who previously lost his title to the former hooded figure from Seattle, took the only fall with an inside crotch, body lift and slam as close to 3000 restless fans looked on.

The bout was one of the poorest of the season, both wrestlers failing to put on their best. The little action that was seen came just before the Kerry strong boy scored the winning fall.

In the semifinal, Mayes McLain, newest hero of the Bowser brigade, bounced to a rousing victory over Robert Makepeace Russell of Newport in 23.09 with a series of tackles.

Jim Casey, Stephen's brother, and Pat Kelly wrestled to a 20-minute draw.

Mellody Ready For Lou Ambers

Honey Mellody, New England lightweight champion, is rounding into top condition for his ten-round main event with Lou Ambers at the Boston Garden, April 25.

Realizing the bout is the most important in his career the Charlestown thumper is going through the training grind as never before, determined to be at his best when he crosses gloves with Ambers.

The Herkimer Hurricane, having stepped into the ring with Mellody once before, knows that he will have no easy job of disposing of Honey.

The last bout they had was a few years back when they were just ascending the ladder of fistic fame and Ambers was very fortunate in garnering a close decision.

The Burning Question

17-Year-Old Jockey King Perturbed by Expenses

BOWIE Md. April 14 (AP)—It isn't the fear of losing his title that bothers No. 1 Jockey Johnny Oros—it's the overhead.

The 17-year-old apprentice rider from Aurora deposed Don Meade last week. But New York lifted Meade's suspension last Tuesday, and Maryland might do the same in time to permit Jurfdom's former king to resume his Florida winning streak.

Was that what caused the frown? "Aw shucks," said Johnny bashfully.

Sitting side-saddle on a table strewn with equipment, he pointed to a dog-eared ledger.

"My expenses," he gloomed.

Everytime he rides an also-ran, which happens more often than riding a winner, he collects the standard fee of $10, but Johnny figures he actually receives less than half.

"First, I must pay my agent $2, and my valet gets $2. The loundry collects 25 cents and $1 goes for miscellaneous expenses," he said. "How much is left?"

The answer is 4.75—not bad when it happens four or five tnmes a day.

Jockeys generally receive a monthly contract salary and collect $25 for each winner, as well as 10 per cent of stakes.

But Johnny is careful and has a "hospital fund" to take care of spills, which insurance companies won't risk. Then, he explained, a leading jockey must dress for his job. "And that costs."

The expense ledger shows the well-equipped jockey needs:

Two pairs of pants each month at $15 a pair; two saddles each year at $50; a pair of boots every 60 days at $15; a new whip every six months at $10; a scalp cap, one a year, at $8; an overgirth every two months at $7; a girth, twice a month at $5, and goggles, two pairs each year, at $2.

Johnny is statistically minded. He figured that the average career of a top-ranker like himself lasts three years. So he decided to mind the mortality tables and save while the saving is good.

If the winning streak lasts, Johnny estimates that he might earn $20,000 this year—"net"—which isn't bad for a 17-year-old who has yet to celebrate the first anniversary of his first winner, last May 12.

Stratton Given Coaching Berth By White Sox

CHICAGO, April 14 (AP)—Monty Stratton, star of the 1938 Chicago White Sox pitching staff who lost his right leg in a hunting accident last winter, was signed as a coach today by President J. Louis Comskey.

The 26-year-old hurler, who still hopes to pitch again, will be a "regular, fulltime coach," Comiskey said in keeping his promise to see that Stratton has employment with the White Sox as long as he wants it.

Manager Jimmy Dykes said Stratton would coach at first base and would travel with the club.

Stratton walks with the aid of an artificial leg.

The White Sox and the National League champion Cubs will play a benefit game for Stratton Monday.
